

ALEXANDER HOOKWAY

ALEXANDER HOOKWAY

Senior Associate

SINGAPORE

T: +65 6532 5335 or +65 6551 9188

Summary

Alexander is a Senior Associate in the Litigation group in the Singapore office of Watson Farley & Williams. He specialises in offshore energy, shipbuilding and construction disputes.

Alexander previously worked in the Marine & International Trade team at Stephenson Harwood in London before relocating to Singapore.

Experience

Alexander's experience includes:

Contentious Experience

Alexander works as part of a team which advises on and litigates disputes for field owner/operators, offshore contractors, and shipyards in both arbitration and High Court formats.

Alexander has spent time in a major European shipyard working with a client project team assisting and advising on an FPSO conversion.

Alongside his Offshore Energy experience, Alexander has handled casualty incidents both in-port and offshore, from initial attendance through to arbitration and High Court, including experience of LOF proceedings.

Non-Contentious Experience

Alexander advises on EPCI, EPC & T & I contracts for offshore energy projects, including renewables developments. This includes experience of both bespoke insurance policy wording and clauses for specific developments and sub-contracting frameworks.

Alexander assists clients with the negotiation of shipbuilding contracts, offshore drilling contracts and long term OSV charter contracts in both Europe and Asia.

Alexander has presented on offshore industry standard formats such as SUPPLYTIME, LOGIC forms and more specialist forms such as HEAVYCON.

Education

- Cardiff University, LLB

Membership of Professional Societies

- Law Society of England & Wales