

INFRAVENIR INTERVIEW WITH ARNAUD TROIZIER ON WASTE-TO-ENERGY PROJECTS

19 MAY 2020 • ARTICLE

Paris Partner Arnaud Troizier speaks to Infravenir, an association for young professionals in the infrastructure sector, on waste-to-energy projects, examining their distinguishing features, investment attractiveness and its future outlook.

Despite the constant flow of projects and their role in the green economy, some of these projects under development are being affected by delays in construction, permitting and financing since the COVID-19 crisis.

Arnaud discusses how to manage technical and current financial risks, how to structure such projects under concession contracts, and also how new technologies can benefit this sector.
