

CLEAN ENERGY PIPELINE'S COVID-19 RENEWABLE RESILIENCE REPORT

9 JUNE 2020 • ARTICLE

Henry Stewart, Co-Head of our Global Energy Group, authored the foreword in Clean Energy Pipeline's COVID-19 Renewable Resilience report.

Henry discusses the three main challenges that need navigating during this crisis – supply chain disruption, government subsidy schemes and re-financing and restructuring. He says that “industry players will have to respond to a new environment” but that “the fundamentals of renewable energy projects remain strong” because the clean energy sector is still looking “extremely positive”. You can read the full foreword and report here.
