BIO

FELIX IS HEADING THE GERMAN PUBLIC LAW & COMPETITION GROUP.

He specialises in administrative, public procurement and state aid law. His practice focuses on providing comprehensive advice on infrastructure and digitisation projects with an industry focus on education & research, health, mobility, utilities & waste management, and telecommunications.

Felix advises on the financing of projects involving available public funding, and on the structuring of organisations. In addition, he assists in the structuring and implementation of national and EU-wide procurement procedures (construction, supply and services) as well as competitive procedures (concessions, investor selection procedures and public-private partnerships), including the drafting of service-specific contracts and negotiations. He also advises bidders on their participation in public procurement procedures. He represents both contracting authorities and bidders in review proceedings and other disputes. He further advises on industry-specific regulatory issues in transactions.

Felix is recognised as a leading lawyer in the field of public procurement law in Legal500 (Germany), where clients highlight his “personal and matter-focussed advice” as well as “clear language, quick work ” and “high expertise”. He is a lecturer for public procurement law at the University for Public Service in Bavaria.

His clients include federal and state ministries, local authorities as well as municipalities and public institutions such as infrastructure companies, municipal and public utilities as well as private companies, banks and investors.
