9 AUGUST 2023 • PRESS

Watson Farley & Williams (“WFW”) advised Bankinter on a financing granted to Reden Solar (“Reden”) for the construction, development and operation of a 34 MWp photovoltaic plant in Aragón, Spain.

Founded in France in 2008, Reden is a leading independent producer of photovoltaic renewable energy, focussing on the development, construction and operation of photovoltaic plants with an international presence in France, Spain, Portugal, Italy, Greece, Chile, Mexico and Puerto Rico. Reden owns and operates 1 GW of installed capacity and employs more than 180 people across its international network.

The WFW Madrid Finance team that advised Bankinter was led by Partner Jose María Anarte, working closely with Senior Associate Jacobo Hermidas and Associates Beltrán Silva and María Heredero.

Jose María commented: “It was a pleasure to have once again advised Bankinter on a new financing for Reden. We look forward to continuing to help them achieve their strategic sustainability goals both in Spain and internationally. WFW is clearly the leading law firm for renewables in Spain, able to advise clients throughout the entire lifecycle of their investment and thereby build close relationships with all key market players”.
