Biography:

Hazel is an associate in the London dispute resolution group.

Hazel qualified in 2016 and specialises in contentious and non-contentious construction and engineering. She regularly advises on disputes regarding contract interpretation, extensions of time, loss and expense, variations, defects, payments, retention and true value. She has worked with a wide-range of clients, including sub-contractors, main contractors, developers, employers, consultants and insurers. Hazel also has widespread experience in dispute resolution, including adjudication, mediation, arbitration and litigation. She is also familiar with standard form construction contracts such as JCT and FIDIC, advises upon and negotiates construction documents and drafts bespoke terms.

Hazel is passionate about construction law and dispute resolution and recently undertook a MSc in Construction Law and Dispute Resolution at King's College, University of London. Her dissertation focussed on fraud allegations in English construction adjudication and enforcement.
