Biography:

Titus is a Partner in the Projects Group.

His practice focusses on finance, corporate and commercial transactions in emerging markets, in particular in the infrastructure, energy and natural resources sectors. Titus acts for clients across the supply chain in these areas, and has extensive experience representing project sponsors, lenders (DFIs, commercial banks and ECAs), and governments or state agencies.

Titus is particularly well known for his work advising on Africa-related transactions, both in civil and common law jurisdictions, where he has advised on several projects and financing transactions across the continent.

He is recognised as a leading lawyer for Africa-wide projects and energy expertise by legal directories Chambers Global and IFLR 1000, the former of which noted in 2019 that he is “a respected practitioner who knows a lot about the continent and doing deals”.

Titus is qualified to practice law in New York, Cameroon and England and Wales.
